Love Puddle Playground

This year we are teaming up with love puddle play ground. Together we are going to be creating a little village.

Wait, lets back up a minute. Who are these love puddle folks? What are they doing with our camp? If you didn't make it out to the playa last year or you didn't really ever make it out side of your tent in the afternoon let me clue you in.

Last year we camped two doors down from a camp that had a bar that served love puddle punch (read: tang and potato juice.) They were a jolly lot and kept our camp well lubricated. They had a gigantic twister board which they kept threatening to apply us towards.

We've all kept in touch and when the notion of throwing our theme camp together came up they were agreeable to joining us on the playa once again with their famous love puddle punch and giant twister board.

So, the slumber marshals are starting a village. Maybe we need a name for it?
